

Fundamentals of Teacher Training

A 6-week online course intended to train and support anyone involved in or expecting to be involved in training primary or secondary teachers of English.

What does Fundamentals of Teacher Training focus on?

- key issues in planning and running teacher training sessions
- skills for designing and running teacher training sessions and courses
- options for further professional development

How much time do participants need to commit?

This is a 30-hour course. Participants are expected to allocate about 5 hours for each week of the course.

Where is Fundamentals of Teacher Training run?

The course takes place entirely online on the Moodle platform hosted by Sue Leather Associates.

When does Fundamentals of Teacher Training start, and how much does it cost?

The first course starts on 3rd October, 2011, and costs $650 (£400). Group rates available on request. For more information on the course see <http://www.sueleatherassociates.com>

To enrol, contact info@sueleatherassociates.com

Who are the course tutors?

The course is designed, taught and managed by Sue Leather Associates and draws upon the extensive trainer training experience and expertise of :

Simon Smith: Simon has worked on training projects in different parts of the world. He has a keen interest in training course and task design, and in how teacher trainers learn and develop.

Radmila Popovic: Radmila is a trainer and consultant with considerable experience of designing and implementing innovative education projects. She is interested in the affective side of teaching, teacher training and trainer training.